DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 04/07/2006 has been entered.

Specification

1. Claim 14 is again objected to because of the following informalities: Following spelling errors are corrected by the examiner for examining purposes: on line 3 of claim 14 "representable" is replaced by "represented" and on line 6 of claim 14 "communicatably" is replaced by "communicably". Applicant is again requested to make appropriate corrections.

3. Claims 1-3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jiang et al (U.S. 5,623,603).

- 4. As per claim 1 Jiang disclosed a communications network for communicating an information comprised of more than one data type, comprising a distinct data type, comprising: a parser for parsing the information to obtain the distinct data type and queue for storing the distinct data type (col.3, lines 7-22).
- 5. As per claim 2 Jiang disclosed the communications network of claim 1, further comprising a client device communicatively connected to the queue for receiving the information communicated over the network (col.3, lines 7-38).
- 6. As per claim 3 Jiang disclosed the communications network of claim 2, further comprising a server including the parser and the queue; wherein the server transmits the distinct data type of the queue in accordance with a pre-determined priority with respect to transmission sequence of the information not comprising the distinct data type (col.3, lines 7-38).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. Claims7-24 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lamming et al (U.S. 6,144,997).

8. As per claims 7,11, 14, 18 & 23 Lamming disclosed a communications network for communicating at least one type of a data (Figure 1 & col.4, lines 1-35), wherein the first type of data is represented by a first token and the second type of data is represented by a second token, comprising: a server device; a tokenization server communicably accessible to the server device; a first data of the first type of data at the server device; a second data of the second type of data at the server device; a dictionary communicably accessible to the tokenization server; wherein the first token and the second token, via the dictionary, are indicative of indicative of the first data and the second data, respectively, available to the tokenization server via lookup in the dictionary (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 43-66); and a communications device communicably connected to the server device (col.5, lines 30-60); wherein the token server communicates to the server device the first token indicative of the first data (col.4, lines 43-67 & col.5, lines 1-16); wherein the token server communicates to the server device the second token indicative of the second data; and wherein the server device respectively communicates the first token and the second token, but not the first data and not the second data, to the communications device (col.5, lines 30-62). Although Lamming did not explicitly disclose a lookup table in the dictionary indicative of the data stored in the server. However lamming disclosed a database 14, which associates each electronic document with a document reference, or token. At the time the invention was made it would have been obvious to one in the ordinary skill in the art to have incorporated the use of database which is indicative of the stored data through the use of reference or token.

- 9. As per claim 8 Lamming disclosed the method of claim 7, further comprising the steps of: receiving the first token identifier receiving the second token identifier; and converting the first token identifier to obtain the entirety of the second first sequence of data; and converting the second token identifier to obtain the entirety of the second sequence of data (col.4, lines 43-66).
- 10. As per claim 9 Lamming disclosed the method of claim 7, wherein the method is performed by a server computer communicatively connected to a client computer (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 1-66).
- 11. As per claim 10 Lamming disclosed the method of claim 9, wherein the respective steps of receiving and converting each of the first token identifier and the second token identifier are performed by the client computer (col.4, lines 43-66).
- 12. As per claim 12 Lamming disclosed the server computer of claim 11, further comprising: a relational database of the defined identifiers(col.4, lines 43-66).
- 13. As per claim 13 Lamming disclosed the server computer of claim 12, wherein the information is an HTML page including at least the first data sequence and the second

- 14. As per claims 15 & 20 Lamming disclosed the communications network of claim 14, further comprising a token converter communicably connected to the communications device, for interpreting the first token, once received by the communications device, as the first data (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 43-66).
- 15. As per claim 16 Lamming disclosed the communications network of claim 15, wherein the token converter is a software of the communications device (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 43-66).
- 16. As per claim 17 Lamming disclosed the communications network of claim 14, wherein the first data is a hyper text mark-up language (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 43-66.
- 17. As per claim 19 Lamming disclosed the method of claim 18, further comprising the step of: communicating the first token, but not the first data, and the second token, but not the second data, over a network to a communications device (col.3, lines 36-67 & col.4, lines 43-66).
